As a teenager sometime I'd wish, I could just move out of the house and do my own thing I felt so restricted and felt lu003cbr /u003eknew best, so one day my brother and I followed through with our thoughts of running away from home and beganu003cbr /u003ethe journey being on our own, we had no money but what we did have was attitude.u003cbr /u003eThat became an unforgettable day and night I will never forget, as we journeyed with the attitude of independenceu003cbr /u003edown streets headed uptown we slowly began to lose the urge to run away and wished we had not, lucky for us ouru003cbr /u003efamily members were spread all across New York City so we were able to limp to one of our aunts house Mmm as I writeu003cbr /u003ethis I wonder how many are not so lucky.u003cbr /u003eThis book is for those teens who felt like my brother and I and let attitude control their emotions instead of reason.
